

CSUF AMERICAN STUDIES

MASTER'S PROGRAM

Why CSUF American Studies?

American Studies at CSUF has a long history of helping local teachers integrate diverse stories, often-ignored perspectives, emerging forms of media, and interdisciplinary research methods into their curricula. Drawing on work from across the social sciences and humanities, we analyze American culture, institutions, and experiences in the past and the present and ask critical questions about the tensions that continue to shape American development. We don't have all the answers, but we teach the skills essential to finding them and help you bring those into secondary, college, and dual-enrolled classrooms so that all students can learn about their histories and cultures.

- Strong emphasis in LGBTQ+ inclusive History, CA and Orange County cultures, and Ethnic Studies
- Diverse classes that examine America from a variety of perspectives
- Discussion-oriented curriculum focused on student engagement

Get more information: Dr. Dustin Abnet, dabnet@fullerton.edu

<https://amst.fullerton.edu/graduateprogram/index.html>

